

Biography- Ninika Dhawan

Ninika Dhawan is a multidisciplinary research professional, currently working as Research Fellow with the World Sustainable Development Forum and Green Growth Strategies Area at The Energy and Resources Institute based at New Delhi. Some of her key assignments include revisiting concepts and narratives on sustainable development; bioeconomy; issues in the Small Island Developing States; issues in the South Asian region. Her research interest lies in the fields of public policy and governance, sustainable livelihoods, participatory approaches to sustainable development and challenges to urban development. She was also part of a team that received Wipro's Earthian Award in 2012. Before working at TERI she has gained diverse experience with her work at UBS AG, Hong Kong, EuroRSCG India and AIESEC India. Ninika is trained with a Masters in Sustainable Development Practice from TERI University and a Bachelor's in Economics (Honours) from Hansraj College, Delhi University.